

Heightened Risk of Cyber Threats

Due to the conflict in Ukraine, it was recently announced that the U.S. Government has issued sanctions against Russian entities. When there is an increase in sanctions it is likely the cyber community will begin to see a rise in cyber threats. This includes an uptick in ransomware attacks to compensate for lost revenue.

As a protective measure, the Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA) has issued an advisory recommending all organizations — regardless of size — adopt a heightened posture when it comes to cybersecurity and protecting their most critical assets. The CISA advisory includes recommended actions that we urge you to consider in this threat environment and provides links to additional resources and tools. The CISA advisory can be found at Shields Up | CISA [cisa.gov].

It is critical for anyone conducting business online to be vigilant.

Remember, when it comes to cyber warfare, there are no borders. Everyone is susceptible to cyber collateral damage.
